OLD AGE HOMES IN INDIA....

Akanksha, Dehradun

The one who gives you birth, the one who takes care of you, the one who teaches you to walk, the one who gives your dreams wings, the one who fulfills your need is one day thrown out of their own home by their own children's. Who cares to give them shelter to live and why will their children keep them at home just because they have brought them up or just because they have completed their needs. The number of old age home is growing rapidly day by day in India. Rich or poor everyone is found thrown away by their children in the old age homes. India comes in the top list where the old age home is growing at a rapid stage.

Through a survey by a NGO in India it is found that there are 728 Old Age Homes in India today. Detailed information of 547 homes is available. Out of these, 325 homes are free of cost while 95 old age homes are on pay & stay basis, 116 homes have both free as well as pay & stay facilities and 11 homes have no information. A total of 278 old age homes all over the country are available for the sick and 101 homes are exclusively for women. Kerala has 124 old age homes which is maximum in any state.

The country where people treat parents as god also have children's who torture their old parents. They make their parents do physical labour as well. Visiting an old age home is seeing angels and fairies without wings and their wings are those unworthy children who left their hands when they needed to hold it the most.

Even if you ask them about their children and why they are here they won't complain about them rather that they will blame themselves and say that they wanted to live alone in peace and they are happy living here. They are enjoying living between the people of their age.

Its painful and hurting to see them in this condition and when you look at them. Their eyes scream out the untold stories which they wish to yell out they have only one question in their mind "what mistake I did in my upbringing that i have to see such a day in my life?"...

Was the mistake in their upbringing or the technology or the modern era which have ruined their minds and let them take such a step in life?
